

Worksheet [4]

When it was quarter to twelve and while the prince was talking to his other guests, she left the ballroom hurriedly. She was driven home as fast as the horses could trot. On the last stroke of midnight, everything vanished! No satins slippers were on her feet either.

Cinderella took her usual place among the ashes & waited. It was dark so she lit a small oil lamp & put it on the mantelpiece. Soon, her sisters came. They talked about the princess whom the prince had danced & how no other gentlemen were permitted to dance with her. They described her dress & her slippers.

On the second evening the ugly sisters went to the ball. Cinderella's good fairy reappeared. Her magic produced the golden carriage, the handsome dapple-gray horses, the coachman, & the footmen.

Cinderella found herself wearing a dress of pale pink silk, embroidered with silver flowers. Her slippers matched her dress perfectly, & in her hair she wore sparkling pink gems. As the coach sped away she heard the good fairy reminding her to be home by twelve.

When Cinderella appeared in the pale everyone wondered who this unknown princess could be. The prince had waited patiently for her arrival "You shall be my partner for the whole evening," he said.

Cinderella forgot the good fairy's warning. She glanced at the clock it was five minutes to midnight. She stopped dancing with the prince & ran out of the ballroom in an instant. The magic had ended. NO Sooner her sisters appeared & talked continuously about the beautiful stranger.

The evening of the third ball came. The good fairy worked her magic again, & touching Cinderella with her wand.

Worksheet [5]

This time the ball gown was made of gold & silver lace. Cinderella wore a diamond necklace, & in her hair she had a diamond tiara. She looked dazzling!

Cinderella entered the ballroom & danced. Suddenly, she heard the clock strike twelve. She left the Prince & fled from the room, down the steps. In her haste, she lost one of her slippers as she ran.

Traveling through the city streets both the prince & his herald carrying the dainty on velvet cushion was looking for his bride. All the ladies tried on the slipper; they each pulled at the shoe & pushed the shoe across the floor. Each tried to squeeze her foot into it.

Finally, the herald & the prince arrived at Cinderella's house. The two ugly sisters fought over who should try on the dainty golden shoe first. They struggled, one after the other, to force their feet into the slipper. Neither one was successful; they were left with feet that were cut & bleeding.

Disappointed that he had still not found his bride, the prince turned to Cinderella's father & asked, "Do you not have another daughter? ". "Yes, one more," replied the father. When Cinderella saw the prince, she bowed down in front of him. She put on the dainty golden slipper. To everyone's surprise, it fit perfectly. The prince shouted joyfully, "This is truly my bride."

A few moments later, Cinderella's good fairy appeared & transformed Cinderella into the beautiful princess. The prince took Cinderella on his horse. Naturally, the two ugly sisters were horrified.

Back at the palace, the king gladly welcomed Cinderella. All the kings, queens, princes & princesses in the country were invited.

1	Action @ a Distance Forces	Forces between 2 interacting bodies that are not in physical Contact with each other.
2	Air-Resistance	Friction Force between (air + any object traveling through it).
3	Ammeter	A device used → measure Electric current.
4	Ampere «A»	Unit of Electric current.
5	Atom	Tiny particles of which all matter is made.
6	Battery	A group of Electric cells.
7	Circuits in Parallel	Two Circuit elements are connected in parallel if the ends of 1 Circuit element are Directly connected → corresponding ends of the other.
8	Closed Circuit	A Circuit in which energy is transferred.
9	Conductor	A material through which charged particles can flow.
10	Constant Force	A Constant Force produces a Constant acceleration.
11	Contact Forces	Forces exerted between bodies in Direct Contact with each other.
12	Coulomb «C»	Unit of quantity of charge.
13	Density	The Mass of 1 cubic centimeter of a material is this material's density.
14	Direct Proportionality	When a graph of a variable quantity A versus another variable quantity B is a straight line that passes through the origin, we say that A is Directly proportional → B.
15	Direction (of a Force)	The straight line Direction upon which a Force acts.
16	Electric Charge «Q»	A property objects may acquire when they are rubbed together.
17	Electric Circuit	A Closed path along which electrons can flow.
18	Electric Current «I»	A flow of charged particles.
19	Electric Force	The Force which attracts electrons → nucleus.
20	Electric Potential Energy	The energy stored by oppositely charged particles.
21	Electrochemical Cell	A special device in which a chemical reaction produces Electricity.
22	Extrapolation	When a reading R is taken either beyond OR before all data points, the reading R is said → be taken by extrapolation.
23	Force	Pushes + pulls that are not tangible, but whose effects can be observed.
24	Free-Falling	Objects that fall in absence of air (or when air resistance is negligible) are said → be free-falling.
25	Frequency	The number of oscillations pendulum makes in 1 second.
26	Friction Force	A Force that resists movement.
27	Generalization	General statements based on a limited number of experiences.
28	Gravitational Force	The downward Force exerted by Earth's gravity on objects.
29	Hypothetical Experiment	An experiment in which we examine the logical consequences of a theoretical hypothesis without making any real observations.
30	Incandescent Light Bulb	A source of artificial light.
31	Insulator	A material through which charged particles cannot flow.
32	Interpolation	When a reading is taken between 2 points representing 2 real measurements, the reading is said → be determined by interpolation.
33	Inverse Proportionality	When $A \times B = k$, where k is a Constant & A & B are variables, we say A is inversely proportional → B.
34	Magnitude (of a Force)	The strength of the Force.
35	Mass	A property of matter that influences the acceleration an object experiences when subjected → a Force.
36	Mathematical Model	A mathematical equation summarizing all the gathered results.
37	Model	A generalization (made of 1 OR more statements) that explains something we don't understand by comparison.
38	Multi-meters	Very useful test instruments; they can be easily set → be voltmeters + ammeters + OR ohmmeters.
39	Neutral Object	Any object that is not charged.
40	Newton's 1st Law	In an inertial state a body continues in its state of rest OR uniform motion unless it is compelled → change that state by an unbalanced Force.
41	Newton's 2nd Law	$F = m \times a$
42	Normal Reaction	The natural push OR pull exerted on any object acting on a surface.

Figure 1 illustrates a word ladder transformation from the word 'c' to 'w'. The words are arranged in a grid, with each row representing a step in the transformation. The letters are color-coded: blue for letters that remain in the same position, green for letters that change, and yellow for letters that are new or have changed position. The sequence of words is: c, e, l, k, m, n, p, r, t, w, y.
